

Municipal workshops on climate adaptation in the canton of Uri

The Swiss canton of Uri has been organizing annual workshops on climate adaptation for municipal representatives and other stakeholders since 2019.

We support the canton when it comes to conceptualizing and implementing the workshops. Each workshop features (1) a presentation given by an expert on a particular subject relating to climate adaptation and (2) a coordinated opportunity for all participants to exchange their ideas. The three workshops held so far have centered on an introduction to climate adaptation (2019), natural hazards (2020), and water, land, and energy management (2021).

Our services

- Drafting of a concept for each of the workshops
- Organization and moderation of the workshops in consultation with the relevant cantonal experts
- Documentation of the workshop contents and results
