

Greening Supply & Demand

EBP led a team in the preparation of a new project designed to advance the use of eco-labels and sustainable public procurement practices as tools for achieving international climate and biodiversity goals in Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, and Mexico. The team, through a consultative process, developed a proposal for submission to the International Climate Initiative. The GIZ, Öko-Institut and the United Nations Development Program (UNEP) are currently implementing the project.
